HEY, Y'ALL! K

I gotta say, this is one issue that won't Rita Repulse-a you even if it has awful puns like this one! Then again, when have we ever made a magazine that wasn't absolutely amazeballs, amirite?

So, anyway, there's a lotta mighty morphin' happening in this ish, which is all about rad reboots and awesome makeovers. The Power Rangers don swanky new suits, Belle and the Beast get the live-action treatment, and King Kong looks bigger and stronger than ever. Hyped!!!

School's finally out for some of you KZ-ers, which means you'll have loads of time for a transformation of your own. Check out the Life Hacks section for ways to beef up your character stats (read: strength, charisma, and so on) IRL. I need a few more stamina points myself, so how about I meet you guys at the pool for some laps? Laps on the pineapple pool float we shot for Starter Pack, that is!

Finally, did you join our fantastic book discussion last month? Newt Scamander would be proud.

Don't forget to pick up a copy of Magnus Chase and the Gods of Asgard: The Sword of Summer, 'coz that's what we're gonna read and talk about this month. M'kay? Speak soon!

DIARY

Kid Crew EJ Santos got to sit down with Jeff Kinney, author of the Diary of a Wimpy Kid series, for a quick chat!

him really fun. He doesn't say a lot, but I think he's an interesting character.

EJ: How long does it take you to write a Wimpy

It took me eight years to finish the first one, and now it takes me about nine months.

EJ: When will you stop writing Wimpy Kid books?

JO Hopefully never!

EJ: What does your diary look like, if you have one?

(Reah, I did keep one from age 25 to 28, and it was a mix of text and illustrations. It looks almost exactly like Diary of a Wimpy Kid.

EJ: Why is reading rad?

1 think that the more you read, the more you get out of life. If you read a lot, you find things that you're interested in and that stimulate your thinking.

Brad, James, Tristan, and Connor, about random stuff! (Speaking of random things, DYK they can all do cart wheels? Yep!)

KZ: Who do you ship in your band? Brad: I think Travley (Tristan + Bradley) would be the craziest couple. Actually, I think it's either Travley or Johnor (James + Connor).

KZ: What do you do when you're having a bad day?

James: I always look at the funny side of things. So, when something goes wrong, I try to joke about it.

Brad: That's right! Have a joke in your back pocket.

KZ: What would you have your fans wear when they go to your concerts? Brad: All the guys in suits. James: All the girls in onesies. Tristan: I like [the color] orange! Brad: I own a monkey onesie, so if they want to come in a monkey onesie, that would be great! Tristan: If they have an orange monkey onesie, that would be fine.

KZ: Do you plan on coming back to the Philippines?

James: We're definitely returning to the Philippines for the world tour!

KID CREW FONZIE GREEKS. ER. GEEKS OUT ABOUT THE PERCY JACKSON SERIES.

GREEK

K-Zone: Hey, Fonzie! How were you introduced to the Percy Jackson books?

Fonzie: I studied the Greek gods in history class and got super into 'em! Then, I got Percy Jackson's Greek Gods for Christmas and liked it so much because it talked about the gods in a fun way.

KZ: How many Percy Jackson books do you have so far, bro?

F: Around 10 or 12. Greek Gods was the very first PJ book in my collection. KZ: What's your fave scene in Greek Gods?

F: The part where Hephaestus crafted thrones for everybody and then tricked Hera into sitting on one of the "trap chairs." It was really funny 'coz he kept cracking jokes while she was stuck there.

KZ: If you could have any of the Greek gods' abilities, whose would you choose? F: Hermes' super speed, because he can get outta any sticky situation! And even as a baby, he was as smart as Einstein! [If I had his powers,] I would sneak around and prank people.

KZ: What would you tell other kids to convince 'em to start reading the PJ books?

F: It's the most entertaining way to learn about Greek mythology!

DO YOU LOVE BOOKS?

Tell us about your fave title or series! Email your name, photo, and book review to kidsrule@kzone. com.ph and you might get featured on this page.

This month, we'll follow the adventures of another cool kid with special powers. Read Magnus Chase and the Gods of Asgard: The Sword of Summer and log in to Facebook on March 24, 8:00PM for a book discussion with the kZ staff!

Cool website of the month:

Quick, Draw! quickdraw.withgoogle.com

You have 20 seconds to sketch an item (we've drawn a hedgehog, a sandwich, and a roller coaster, to name a few) while this A.l. experiment tries to deduce what you're drawing. The game's "neural network" does the guesswork by matching your artwork with previous players' illustrations. You can check out how other peeps drew the same objects after you complete a round. Now quick, draw!

FANTASTIC BEASTS UPDATE

ANTASTIC

EASTS

RE TO FIND THEM

An up-to-date edition of Fantastic Beasts and Where to Find Them comes out this month. Proceeds from the book. which features six additional creatures and a new foreword by Newt Scamander, will benefit a couple of children's charities. Fantastic!

HK PROJECT

A vgame where you play as a cat? Aw, yeah! "HK Project" is still in its early stages, but the game devs (composed of "two humans and two cats") say it's a third-person solo adventure game set in a dystopian city. Sounds purrf!

The cat-collecting app's live-action trailer is a kawaii overload with all those RL kitties roaming about! The Neko Atsume meow-vie premieres next month in Japan.

LUCAS MUSEUM

George Lucas will put up a Museum of Narrative Art in Los Angeles, California. He'll reportedly spend US$1 billion (PHP50 billion) on the museum, which will showcase his personal art collection and tons of Star Wars ephemera.

TRINI KWAN

A.K.A. YELLOW RANGER

Trini pilots the Sabertooth Tiger Dinozord and her weps, the Power Daggers, are effective in both melee and long-range combat.

WHAT WE WANNA SEE:

Trini and Billy having geniuslevel convos (a la Tony Stark and Bruce Banner) like in the T.V. versh would be a #feelstrip.

A.K.A. BLACK RANGER

Zack summons the Mastodon Dinozord. For combat, he uses the Power Axe, which can deal huge damage to a foe with a single blow. WHAT WE WANNA SEE:

Each member of the team falling victim to Zack's pranks is the perfect homage to the original series, bruh.

Meet the newest defenders of Earth—the Power Rangers.

ZORDON'S

ARSEDAL

In addition to their Power Morphers, the Rangers have access to heaps of awesome weps and gadgets to aid 'em in their fight against the forces of evil.

Blade Blaster

This Ranger side wep is used for blasting baddies from a distance.

Shark Cycles

Made outta the fins of a prehistoric shark, these motorbikes are used by the Rangers for quick monster chases and of course, to get to the action swiftly and with steez.

Power Blaster

The Rangers can combine their special weapons to form the Power Blaster and launch their ultimate attack. Hi-yah! cue explosion

KIMBERLY ANN HART

BILLY CRANSTOR

A.K.A. BLUE RANGER

The Triceratops
Dinozord is Billy's ultimate weapon,
but he also has the Power Lance, a spear that can split into two trident-like sai blades.

WHAT WE

WHAT WE WANNA SEE:

As the resident tech guy, Billy creates gadgets that help the team defeat dem baddies. We can't wait to see what kind of gizmos he comes up with.

A.K.A. PINK RANGER

When she's not piloting the Pterodactyl Dinozord, Kim wields the Power Bow, a weapon that can shoot energy arrows.

WHAT WE WANNA SEE:

Kim and Tommy (OG Green Ranger) were one of our earliest ships in the geeky 'verse. Let's hope he's a surprise character in this movie versh.

Translation: Avoid approaching hoomans at all costs.

If there's nowhere to escape, hide in a safe spot, keep quiet, and observe them from afar like a ninja.

Pay attention to any blasts, explosions, or rumblings caused by machinery. These are signs that these vexing creatures might be up to something. In such cases, scare them a bit by stomping on the ground or shaking massive forest trees.

IT AINT EASY BEING A 100-FOOT-TALL INTROVERTED APE ON AN ISLAND THAT HUMANS ARE CONSTANTLY INVADING, WE SUSSED OUT THE MIGHTY KONG'S GUIDE TO DEALING WITH, ER, USI

lf a hooman starts giving chase, counterattack by:

- Turning your back and walking away
- Covering the human with mud
- Flicking the human with your finger

Translation:

some of these shrewd fellas will try to lure you with soothing music, some loud squawking, fireworks, and seemingly delicious food. Do not fall for these tricks! #ItsATrap

NOTE TO SELF: There's no such thing as a 10-foot-long banana!

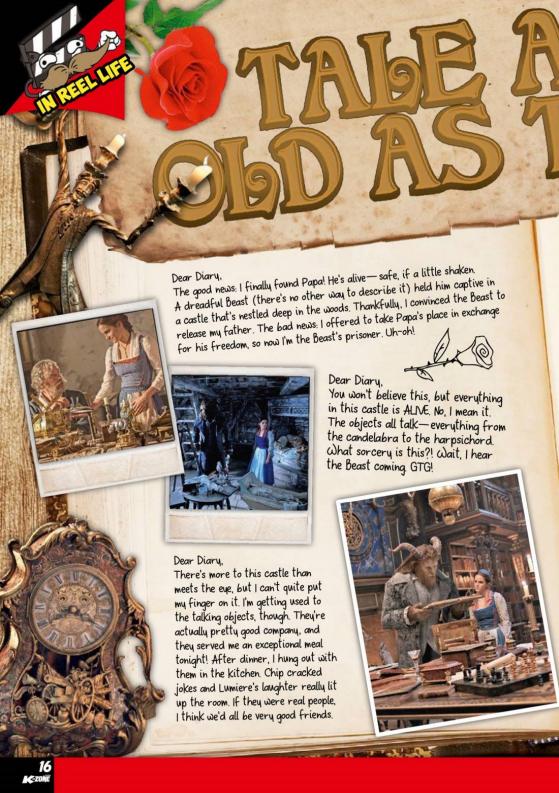

If a bigger group is heading your way, you may choose from these scare tactics: Fold them into squares and stack 'em up.

- Swat them like flies by smacking down
- Hang them on branches and tickle them. Establish eye contact and yell at the top of your lungs.

Be patient. Humans idolize stubborn action-hero gods like Chuck Norris, The Hulk, and John Cena. They are a persistent species that will keep coming back, even after you've given them all you've got. They are likely to return to their HQ, rebuild, re-energize, and pester you again. Keep your actions unpredictable and stay alert. Good luck!

THE MYSTERY SHACK

GRAVITY FALLS

Why it needs a Toon-around Grunkle Stan could prolly make it a little bit homier since he's got two kids living there.

House Tooms-formations Don't worry, we're not turning it into Gideon-land. Juuust a few small fixes, like finally getting that big "S" in "Shack" to stick, replacing the wallpaper, repairing the floors, and adding storage space for all of Mabel's sweaters.

MORDECAI AND RIGBY'S ROOM

THE REGULAR SHOW

adding one more floor (read: another rock on top). Now he'll have more room to roll around and be goofy!

Why it needs a Toon around: Dude, there are waaay too many clothes on the floor for peeps who don't even wear pants.

House Tooms-formations Ya know what the most extreme thing they could do is? CLEAN! (See, it's not just Benson who thinks so!)

WE GOT TO THINKING ABOUT HOW WE COULD SNAZZY UP SOME TOON CRIBS-AND THIS IS WHAT WE IMAGINED!

TURTLE SEWER LAIR

TEENAGE MUTANT NINJA TURTLES

Why it needs a Toon-around:

Just because they're underground doesn't mean they gotta live in a garbage dump, right?

House Toons-formations First, let's add some real comfy furniture that's not made of pizza boxes and garbage. Throw in a skate park (for gnarly tricks), an elevator (to go above ground), and a zen garden (to practice ninjutsu and chill).

THE CAVE

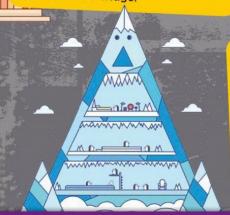

WE BARE BEARS

Why it needs a Toon-around:

Their living quarters are kinda, well, bare, (Heh.)

House Toons-formation: Give the cave some Shire steez and pattern it after Bilbo Baggins' house. Add a mini studio for Pan-pan's vlogging, a comfier couch for Grizz, and an air-conditioned room so poor Ice Bear can finally stop sleeping in the fridge.

ICE KINGDOM

ADVENTURE TIME

Why it needs a Toon-around, Just one look at Ice King's palace and all you'll think about is doom and gloom! House Toons-formations Let's build a skating rink inside so the place will look less creepy and more inviting. And don't forget to add an indoor pool for the penguins, a stage for performing magic, and a soft bed (that's not made of ice).

SWAT Kats: The Radical Squadron (1993-1995)

T-Bone and Razor are boss mechanics who build high-tech vehicles, such as the jet fighter Turbokat, from scrap metal.

D.I.Y. win!

We inject some #girlpower as Callie and Felina join the Kat #squad. Purr-fection!

Richie Rich's Cartoon Show (1980-1984)

The richest kid in the world uses his wealth to fight master criminals, aliens, and other sinister threats.

Jem and The Holograms (1985-1988)

Jerrica Benton is a music producer by day and a rockstar called Jem by night. Thanks to a holographic computer named Synergy, she can transform into a different person. Truly outrageous!

He-Man and the Masters of the Universe/ She-Ra: Princess of Power

(1983-1985/1985-1987)

By the power of Grayskull, twins Prince Adam and Princess Adora use magical swords to transform into superpowered beings who can brawl against baddies.

He-Man and She-Ra are thrown into another dimension A.K.A. our own world! How will they deal with modern times?

Gundam Build Fighters Try

Most Powerful Attack: Houou Haoh-Ken (Conquering Phoenix Fist) Can Destroy: Space colonies

The Kamiki Burning Gundam's massive reserves of plavsky particle, combined with Sekai's own martial arts mastery, make it a virtually unstoppable force inside a Gunpla arena! During the attack, the mech focuses all of its plavsky energy into one devastating punch.

10 EXPLOSION POWER LEVEL

Super Saiyan Blue Son Goku Dragon Ball Super

Most Powerful Attack: Kamehameha Can Destroy: The moon, god-like deities

In Goku's most powerful Super Saiyan form yet, his hair turns blue to reflect his totes chill mind—a far cry from the insta-rage mode that's typical of a Super Saiyan power-up. Goku's ultimate attack, the Kamehameha, involves channeling his ki into his hands then firing it as an explosive beam.

ultimate attacks in anime. mind-blown

Most Powerful Attack: Overskill: Magic Contract Can Destroy: Reality

Shiroe can manipulate reality inside Elder Tale, an MMORPG where the anime takes place. He can turn in-game NPCs into official player characters and change a player's job class. He's basically like a master hacker in the game!

Musashi (Battle Mode) Arpeggio of Blue Steel

Most Powerful Attack: Super-Graviton Cannon (x20) Can Destroy: Countries

The super battleship Musashi can draw enough firepower from its graviton cannons alone to blow its enemies to smithereens. Musashi creates a mini black hole and focuses its power into a deadly beam before firing it.

K-Zone: Hi, Mestre Fantasma! That's a pretty cool name! What is the meaning behind it?

MESTRE FANTASMA:
Before, practitioners would use nicknames to conceal their identities 'coz the sport used to be illegal. We uphold that tradition to this day. I was given the nickname
"Fantasma," which means "ghost" in Portuguese.

KZ: Can you tell us about the origins of Capoeira?

MF: It originated in Brazil in the 1600s and it was created by Africans. Legend has it that Capoeira was disguised as a dance so that the authorities would not notice [hence its fluid movements].

KZ: What are the physical benefits of Capoeira?

MF: It's the only martial art that works with music. It's a head-to-toe exercise that requires a lot of flexibility, rhythm, and balance, so it's very complete.

KZ: How legit are Eddy and Christie's moves in Tekken?

MF: Very legit! A real Capoeira master was brought to Japan so that his moves could be motion-captured. The video game has helped Capoeira's [popularity] very much.

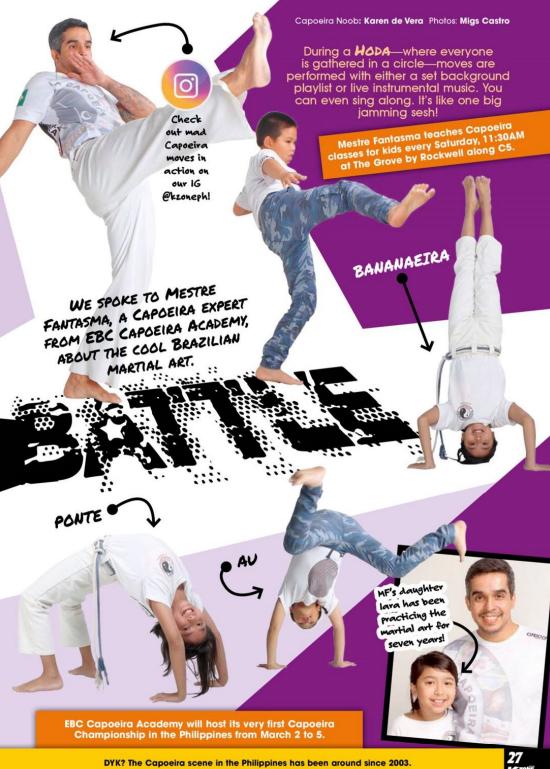

BENÇÃO

Ginga is one of the most basic Capoeira moves. It really looks like a dance because you're just swaying back and forth.

GINGA

THIS QUICK GIFT GUIDE WILL TELL YA WHICH MIGHTY MORPHIN' POWER RANGERS FUNKO POP! BEST SUITS EACH MEMBER OF YOUR BARKADA.

RED RANGER POP

PERFECT FOR: The Leader

The reliable friend who makes everyone listen, plans most, if not all, of your squadventures (or misadventures), and steps up when things go cray. Without The Leader, the gang is often in chaos.

GREEN RANGER POP

PERFECT FOR: The M.I.A. Friend
There's always that friend who's extra hard to invite and rarely goes out of the house because either his 'rents didn't allow him to, or he's too lazy to socialize. This rare Pokémon sometimes makes a cameo appearance, tho.

BLACK RANGER POP

PERFECT FOR: The Comedian
The comic relief of the group who's often pulling pranks on people. Their fave holiday is obviously April Fools'
Day, and they never fail to make ya LOL!

PINK RANGER POP

PERFECT FOR: The Sporty One

The crew's most athletic member who likes to drag you guys to join a marathon or play a basketball game.

PERFECT FOR: The Explorer
The intrepid one who always encourages the gang to go camping, trekking, or whatever adventurous, outdoorsy idea they come up with next.

WHITE RANGER POP

PERFECT FOR: The Wingman/

Wingwoman

They're usually the leader's bestie and acts as second-in-command when planning stuff. They make the wisest decisions, like whether it's better to go to the mall or hold a video chat with the squad instead.

BLUE RANGER POP

PERFECT FOR: The Smarty Pants
They're the brains of the whole operation. The Smarty Pants is always ready to tutor you if you're struggling with a math lesson or needing help with a science project. He also ends up computing how to divvy up the resto bill when you guys eat out.

IRON MAN EXPERIENCE

The recently unveiled Iron Man Experience is the first Marvel ride in any Disney theme park, and it's a solid !! See Tony Stark's latest and greatest creations (and then some) up close in the Stark Expo, then hop aboard the Iron Wing Mark VIII for a tour of Hong Kong, Iron Man-style! BTW, keep your eyes peeled for a Stan Lee cameo, and drop by the Iron Man Tech Showcase next door for a chance to meet the man of the hour. Excelsior!

THE HAPPIE PLACE ON EA

HYPERSPACE MOUNTAIN

WHERE: TOMORROWLAND

Disneyland's classic ride, Space Mountain, got a cosmic *Star Wars-*themed makeover! Hyperspace Mountain is an indoor coaster, so you're in the dark and can't see where you're going—hey, extra thrill points! You'll deffo feel as if you're traveling in hyperspace, trust.

RC RACER WHERE: TOY STORY LAND

Remember how Woody and Buzz rode RC, the remote-controlled car, as they chased the moving truck in the first Toy Story movie? This ride recreates that experience, this time on a gigantic U-shaped track! #DefyingGravity

BIG GRIZZLY MOUNTAIN RUNAWAY MINE CARS

WHERE: GRIZZLY GULCH

In this exhilarating roller coaster ride, you're in a mine car that's zipping through an old mountain. Ya know, typical mine car stuff. Wait, is that... dynamite that's about to explode? Oh noes!

WELL, THIS SIDE OF ASIA, AT LEAST. PACK YOUR BAGS, PUT ON YOUR MICKEY EARS, AND LET'S HEAD FOR HONG KONG DISNEYLAND!

Theme parks can be pretty overwhelming. There's so much to see and do, you just don't know where to start. We gotchu, fam! Check out our guide to the most thrilling rides at Hong Kong Disneyland.

THE FULL EXPERIENCE

It's not just about the rides, yo! Here are some other musts for your HK Disneyland trip.

MEET AND GREET

Just this once, we give ya permission to go on all-out stalker mode. Hunt down your fave Disney characters and aet a photo with them!

SNACK BREAK

We highly recommend getting an Iron Man Waffle, a Lightsaber Churro, and of course, a Mickey ice cream bar. Yum!

LATER. MATER!

Quitting early is a no-no! Make sure you stay for the "Disney Paint the Night" parade at 7PM and the spectacular "Disney in the Stars" fireworks at 8PM.

We talked to Ted Robledo, creative director Imagineer, designing Hong Kong Disneyland's

K-Zone: Hello, Ted! Who's your favorite Disney character?

TED ROBLEDD: It changes every day 'coz there are too many to choose from! I liked Tigger when I was a kid. I also liked the '90s [Disney] movies; I thought the Genie from Aladain was very cool, and I thought Quasimodo from The Hunchback of Notre Dame was an inspirational character. One could say the Disney family has expanded to the Star Wars characters, so now I can say Darth Vader! And of course, Spider-Man and Iron Man, too. It's a privilege to be able to bounce around all of my favorite characters.

and Joe Quesada (Marvel's chief creative officer), who were heroes of mine as well. Joe Quesada started his career as a comic book artist. I wanted to be a comic artist as a kid. I remember being in college and wanting to be like Joe Quesada, so [working with him] was pretty amazing!

KZ: What do you like most about being an Imagineer?

Th: Working with diverse people from different backgrounds and disciplines. In my own life, I've jumped between my interests in arts,

Th: We realized early on that Iron Man, or Tony Stark, is a special character that a lotta peeps around the world relate to and are impressed by.

KZ: How was it like to collab with the Marvel peeps on the Iron Man Experience?

Th: We worked with a lot of great partners at Marvel—guys like Stan Lee, Kevin Feige (president of Marvel Studios), for the Iron Man Experience, about being a Walt Disney latest attraction, and working with comic book legends.

music, technology, and graphic design. As an Imagineer, I get to work with people who are experts in those fields.

KZ: How can kids become everyday Imagineers?

Th: "Imagineer" is a term

Walt Disney came up with, which combines imagination and engineering. You can look at it as story and science coming together. We [Imagineers] do what we do and build what we build to entertain people and make fantasies and dreams come true. Whether you're interested in science or engineering or music, [you can channel your inner Imagineer] when you bring your imagination to it. Challenge yourself and think about a solution that no one else has ever thought of. Whatever you can do in your everyday practice—drawing your favorite character, playing with your building blocks—whatever it is that you love to do, just keep practicing and keep doing it.

KZ: Cool! Finally, what would your superhero power be?

Th: I want the ability to control time, because I never have enough of it!

Hiya, Ted!

YOUR TRUE RANGER DESTINY.

Mostly As LONE RANGER

You're the village hero who's always ready for swashbuckling adventures! After saving the day, you usually make a dramatic exit by riding your trusty steed into the sunset.

Mostly Bs PARK RANGER

You may not have any superpowers, but your outdoorsy skills would definitely come in handy in the wild.

Mostly Cs SPACE RANGER

Just like Buzz Lightyear, you defend the galaxy from evil! With your laser cannon, you can easily blast pesky aliens to smithereens:

Mostly Ds POWER RANGER

Kewl! What's not to love about being a Power Ranger? You get a superpower, an awesome weapon, a kick-butt outfit, and a humongous Zord of your own. 'Nuff said.

NOT ALL ASPIRING POWER RANGERS BECOME PART

NEON-RANGER

POWER WEAPON: Magic Highlighter POWER SOURCE: Neon Whistle
For some reason, Neon Ranger always gets mistaken for a traffic enforcer. There was even one instance when people accidentally followed him into the battlefield thinking they were headed to the parking garage. Zordon appointed him chief traffic enforcer in the city instead.

RAINBOW RANGER

POWER WEAPON: Unicorn Blaster POWER SOURCE: The Prism Rainbow Ranger is a trained ninja who possesses the mystical power of the rainbow. Unfortunately, her attacks don't deal much damage, since she just showers the enemy with multicolored confetti.

PERIWINILE RANGER

POWER WEAPON: Blue Bow POWER SOURCE: Flower Garden Periwinkle Ranger was the toughest of all the rangers! But he got kicked out after his strong floral odor distracted the rest of the team and almost cost them a battle against Ivan Ooze. Aw, that stinks!

OF THE TEAM. MEET THE CANDIDATES WHO DIDN'T MAKE THE CUT.

TRANSPARENT RANGER

POWER WEAPON: Clear Spear POWER SOURCE: Crystal Gem
This guy is an unsung hero! Transparent Ranger helped the Rangers defeat Rita Repulsa in their final showdown.
The poor guy didn't get any cred, though, because, well, no one saw him. (John Cena, is that you?)

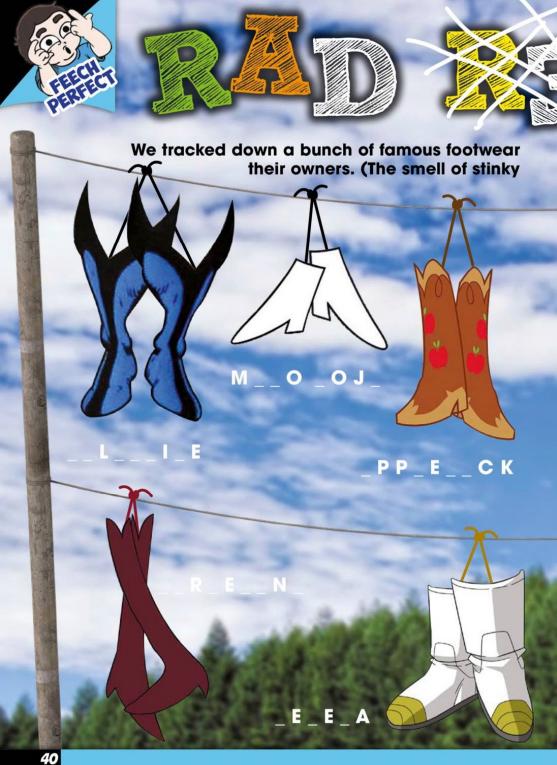

FLESH RANGER

POWER WEAPON: Nunchuks POWER SOURCE: A Naked Mole Rat Statue

Flesh Ranger is very eager to join the team's crusade against evil. However, the Rangers sent him home on his first day of training because they thought he wasn't wearing any clothes. #ToughLuck

POWER WEAPON: Mystical Glow Stick

POWER SOURCE: The Moon There's no question about Glow-in-the-Dark Ranger's monster-fighting skills. The problem? She can be easily spotted during nighttime, making it difficult for her to launch a surprise attack on baddies.

FANTASTIC TRI AND WHERE TO FIND THE AND WHERE TO FIND THE

Welcome to Groot and Pickett's herbology-slash-botany class!

Let's get to the root of the matter and learn about some top-notch trees.

BOOJUM TREES

Location: Baja California peninsula Scientific name: Fouquieria columnaris

"I am Groot? I am Groot." [Translation: "Hey, Pickett, Did you know that the oldest cloned tree in the world is a Norway Spruce named Old Tjikko? Experts at Sweden's Umea University say the tree is 9,550 years old. Can you be-leaf it? That means this spruce has been around since the last Ice Age!]

"I am Groot."

[Translation: This tree belongs to the ocotillo fam—types of trees that have Semi-Succulent or cactus-like stems and Spikes. A Boojum, A.K.A. Cirio, can grow up to 20 meters tall and blooms honey-scented flowers in Summer and fall.]

NORWAY SPRUCE

Location: Fulufjället Mountains, Sweden Scientific name: Picea abies

The second second

LE CHÊNE CHAPELLE (THE CHAPEL OAK)

Location: Allouville-Bellefosse, Seine-Maritime, France Scientific name: Quercus

Tiny Squeaking [Translation: This 800-year-old oak

[Translation: This 800-year-old oak tree was carved in the 1600s to make room for not one, but two chapels inside its huge trunk!]

High-pitched Squeal

[Translation: This is the tallest living tree in the world, with a height of 115.55 meters. I would look like a tiny seedling next to it. This giant tree can be found in Cali's Redwood National and State Parks. Groot, we should check it out!]

COAST REDWOOD

Location: California, U.S.A. Scientific name: Sequoia sempervirens

THE BOAB PRISON TREE

Location: Wyndham, Western Australia Scientific name: Adansonia gregorii

Small excited murmurs

[Translation: The Boab's trunk is so stout, a person could fit in there! In fact, an Australian myth claims it was once used to lock up prisoners. The tree also goes by a lotta names, including baobab, gouty stem tree, upside down tree, bottle tree, monkey bread tree, and gadawon.]

BRAZILIAN PINE Location: Southern Brazil Scientific name: Araucaria angustifolia

"I am Groot."

[Translation: Also called Candelabra because of its branches, this Southern American tree isn't actually a real pine. It has a straight trunk that grows spikes toward the top, and its crown is flat. Also, its branches jut straight out from the trunk and look like they have pompoms at the tips! Unfortunately, this tree is critically endangered 'coz people eat its fruit and seeds. #SaveTheTrees] att was on a weeklong camping trip with his family and they were sharing scary stories around a bonfire. He always loved this part of their summer road trips.

He'd always been fascinated with monsters. He spent most of his time online, researching the biggest, scariest, and most horrifying stories out there. As the campfire dwindled and his parents started yawning, Matt decided to go on a monster hunt by himself. When midnight struck, he grabbed one of the flashlights and snuck out.

The woods were cold and quiet. The only sound he could hear was his dad's snoring back in the tent. Matt turned on his flashlight and headed off into the darkness.

Not long after, he came across a wide, circular lake with its surrounding area completely abandoned. There were no animals, no bugs, and no plants around the lake. It seemed as though not even grass wanted to grow near the shore.

Matt approached the lake. In the moonlight, the still waters seemed like a mirror. He leaned over to take a look, and in the reflection on the water he saw a creature. At first, Matt couldn't see it clearly, but when he squinted, he could slowly make out the features on its face. The creature had wrinkled skin that was a sickly shade of purple. It was mostly hairless, except for a few strands of gray hair here and there.

Most of its features weren't extraordinary.
Oh, but its eyes... Its eyes weren't ferocious or mean, like what Matt thought monster eyes were supposed to look like. They were... strangely peaceful. They showed no emotion, but Matt couldn't help being drawn in by them. The creature's gaze felt oddly welcoming.

Matt spun around. There was nothing behind him. When he looked at the water again, the only thing he saw was his own reflection. Unnerved by the experience, he hurried back to the tent and forced himself to sleep.

That night, Matt dreamt of the mysterious creature. It was walking toward him with its arms wide open.

The next morning, Matt's family packed up and continued on their road trip. Matt never talked about what he saw that night by the lake. He never mentioned the creature's leathery skin. He never told anyone about its scraggly stray hairs. He never spoke a word about its hauntingly familiar eyes.

But he thought about those eyes. He thought about the creature all day.

He couldn't get the creature out of his head. When they took a pit stop at a gas station, he saw it, fleetingly, in the bathroom mirror. Sometimes, when a car with heavily tinted windows drove past them, he imagined seeing it in the glass.

At night, just as he was about to doze off, he saw it in his dad's rearview mirror. It always vanished whenever he looked away.

The creature invaded his dreams every night. Every time, it would walk toward him, its eyes calm and peaceful, its arms stretched out for an embrace. It never seemed to get any closer to him, but the nightmares freaked Matt out just the same. He'd wake up in the middle of the night in a cold sweat, his heart pounding.

By the end of the week, he'd had enough. He needed to know more about the creature. Maybe, just maybe, he could find out something—anything—about it online. While his parents slept soundly, he took out his phone and looked up the creature on the internet.

He closed his eyes and tried to recall every detail about it. He entered its features on a search engine as he remembered them. Eventually, he chanced upon a site named "Have You Seen It?" and clicked on the link.

Matt was greeted by an image of the creature, complete with disgusting, wrinkly skin and a vacant stare. It was a drawing by someone else who must have seen the monster. Matt scrolled down to see the rest of the page.

It read:

If you have seen this creature, you must stop thinking about it. Do it now. Do it quickly. Do not let the creature remain in your thoughts. It is through your thoughts that the creature will enter this world.

A shiver rushed down Matt's spine. He dropped his phone and hid under the blankets. He tried to think of other things before he went to sleep: pizza, video games, comic books. It didn't help. The same dream haunted him once again—the creature and its leathery skin, loose hairs, and odd, familiar gaze. He woke up in a panic, just like he did every night since he first saw it. He sat up in his sleeping bag, his head feeling cold and bare. He ran his fingers over it and touched... nothing. He looked down on his pillow and saw clumps of hair on it. His hair.

Matt grabbed his phone and turned on the front-facing camera to get a good look at himself. His face had changed. His hair was falling in chunks from his scalp. His skin had gone all wrinkly and bruised. Only his eyes remained the same. They were the only thing left of his own face.

The creature was entering this world. And it was entering this world through him.

HOW TO MAKE YOUR KZ PAPER POP TOY:

- Cut the toy pattern along the thick black outlines. Make slits along the red broken lines.
- Pold the BUILDING's right flap. Apply glue to the folded portion while carefully avoiding the areas parallel to the slits.
- Make a valley fold for the BUILDING's first floor, then make mountain folds on the rest of the white flap to form a triangular base. Glue the smallest flap onto the BUILDING.
- Glue the BUILDING onto the BASE.
 Use the blue dotted lines as a guide.
- Fold the white flaps of the HEAD and glue them together at the tips (after the dotted lines).
- Carefully insert CHEESE-LEB's arm and foot into the slits found on the BUILDING's side. You can also make him wear the gorilla head. Now, swing around the city, Cheese Kong!

STAR TREK: BRIDG

AVAILABLE ON

PLAYSTATION VR. OCULUS RIFT, HTC VIVE

GENRE

117

Star Trek: Bridge Crew boldly goes where no other Star Trek game has gone before: to the realm of virtual reality!

SET PHASERS

Round up your crew and take control of a federation starship.

In this game, you'll experience what it's like to actually work aboard a starship. The VR aspect totes immerses you in the role and lets you interact with fellow crew members. Strap on that headset and get ready to blast off!

YES, CAPTAIN!

Beam us up, bro!

Star Trek: Bridge Crew puts you in the futuristic boots of one of the four crew members of the U.S.S. Aegis, a brand new addition to the Federation's fleet. Your mission is to search for a new homeworld for the Vulcan race in a recently discovered region of space called The Trench. Along the way, you'll encounter all sorts of scrapes that could tear your ship apart and blast the crew into space dust. To make matters worse, the Klingon Empire is looking to give you one astronomical headache. Uh-oh!

KNOW YOUR ROLE!

Choose your job class.

Captain

The captain's chair comes with huge responsibility. You'll be looking at the overall situation on the U.S.S. Aegis, making super important decisions, and giving orders to your crew.

Tactical Officer

Your job is to make sure the Aegis is in tip-top shape. You'll be in charge of the ship's weapons and shields.

Chief Engineer

Aside from screaming "I'm giving it all she's got, Captain," it's your job to distribute power to the ship's various functions. Will you charge up the shields, or redirect power to the warp drives?

Helmsman

Yep, you're at the helm of the Aegis' navigational controls. You'll be steering the ship, getting it into the right position during missions, and punching it into warp speed when things get dicey!

ROAD RULES

Final Fantasy XV's Noctis, Ignis, Gladiolus, and Prompto show you how to rock that summer road trip!

BE PREPARED FOR ANYTHING

N: The Regalia broke down in Leide, right at the start of our trip, and the four of us had to push it to Hammerhead. Ugh! Anything and everything can go wrong on road trips, no matter how well-planned, so keep your cool and do what you gotta do. Even princes gotta get their hands dirty.

WHAT YOU CAN DO: It's all about the 'tude, dude! If something doesn't go according to plan, just relax, take a chill pill, and figure out how to fix it.

0

PLAN ACTIVITIES FOR EVERYONE

G: My bros know that I luuurve slurping noodle soup, so they took me to the Cup Noodles Shop in Lestallum!

WHAT YOU CAN DO: Take turns deciding on the next activity. It's only fair!

MANAGE YOUR GIL

P: It's hard to earn gil! We had to do tons of things, like sell carrots in Cape Caem and take hunting contracts at restaurants, just so we could have a steady supply of curries, potions, and elixirs.

WHAT YOU CAN DO: Make a budget for things you want to spend on—food, drinks, theme park tickets, and souvenirs—and stick to it.

TAKE ALL THE PHOTOS!

P: It's easy to forget that we pushed a car all over Lucis. saved the world from the Starscourge, and did loads of other things in between. Luckily, I took a TON of pictures to document our kick-butt (literally) journey.

WHAT YOU CAN DO: Snap away. but don't forget to be present and enjoy the moment, too.

DO YOUR RESEARCH

1: Knowledge is a wonderful thing, and I try to pick up as much information as possible on the road. Whether it's to track down the black Chocobo that stole my spectacles in Petriche Haven, learn how to heal my friends, or explain the superiority of Ebony Coffee, a little wisdom goes a long way, trust.

UNCHAINED X

The game that started it all! The story of Sora, Kairi, and Riku and how they deal with the Heartless and their leader, Ansen, was well-received all over the world thanks to its unique fusion of Final Fantasy characters and iconic Disney movies.

CHAIN OF MEMORIES (2004, Game) Boy Advance)

358/2 C2009, Ninte

BIRTH BY (SLEEP (2010, PSP)

Set long before the events of the first Kingdom Hearts game, this installment covers the Keyblade War.

Future Keyblade Masters Terra, Aqua, and Ventus are the heroes in this prequel. The game also explains Xehanort's origins and how Sora and Riku got Keyblades.

358/2 Days takes place some time after KH and stars Roxas, the newest member

After the events of KH, Sora visits a place called Castle Oblivion. Btdubs, this is the only title to use a card battle system.

DREAM DROP DISTANCE (2012, 3DS)

Master Yen Sid puts Sora and Riku through the Mark of Mastery exam, while Xehanort (the story's big boss baddie) makes a major comeback.

In the direct sequel, we finally meet the rest of Organization XIII, A.K.A. the KH2 villains, as Sora battles against them in order to protect Kingdom Hearts.

Following the epilogue in KH2, Sora learns about Terra, Ven, and Aqua, plus his own role as the "key that connects everything."

The Ultimate Key

Apart from three titles—358/2 Days, Re:coded, and X—you can play every game in the series on a single platform when you get the compilation Kingdom Hearts
1.5 + 2.5 ReMIX, which comes out this month!

YOU GOT GAME

WE CHATTED WITH ADELLE BUENO, SQUARE
ENIX'S CHIEF ENVIRONMENT TECHNICAL ARTIST
(READ: SHE DESIGNS VGAME BACKGROUNDS), ABOUT GAMING GEEKERY. (BTW, SHE'S A FELLOW PINOY, COOL!)

K-Zone: Hi, Adelle! What vgames did you play growing up?

Adelle Bueno: Super Mario Bros., Super Mario Kart, Street Fighter, and Pokémon. Oh, I was also really into dinosaurs as a kid, so I loved Turok, but I wanted to befriend the dinos instead of hunting them. As I got older, I played RPGs like Chrono Trigger and the Final Fantasy series. I'm a huge RPG nut to this day!

KZ: What makes the video game industry awesome?

AB: It's one of a kind—getting to work on video games is really quite inspirational in itself. In no other industry will you find this intersection of art, storytelling, interactivity, and technology. I get to work alongside creative people and make something that others can enjoy.

KZ: What are the challenges you face on the job?

AB: Well, video game standards are set really high—players expect a lot out of a game, and rightfully so! Because of this, the industry is highly competitive!

KZ: If you weren't a vgame artist, what would you be doing 'stead?

AB: That's really hard to say! So much of my life centers around the vgame industry my work, hobbies, etc. However, I enjoy storytelling in general, so I would probably be a novelist.

KZ: What is your dream project?

AB: The opportunity to work on the Final Fantasy franchise (most recently, Final Fantasy XV) has been a definite dream come true for me!

KZ: Can you share some advice for kids who wanna be vgame artists?

AB: Before trying to convince your parents, you gotta make sure that it's something you're truly passionate about. Yes, it's fun, but it also requires a lot of hard work. Ask yourself, will you still enjoy the work even if it's in an art style or a theme that you don't really dig? Spend as much time as you can learning new things and improving your skills. There are so many resources online, from tutorials to opensource software. Also, be nice to people—that's good life advice in aeneral.

5. QUICK—SELECT YOUR SOUND EFFECT!

A. POW! B. BZZT! C. PEW-PEW-PEW! D. WHOOSH!

RESULTS

Mostly As: You should play ARMS.

It's like regular boxing, 'cept you're brawling with extendable super arms! The fighting game uses motion controls so you're gonna get one heck of an exercise to boot!

Mostly Bs: You should play XENOBLADE CHRONICLES 2.

Get ready for an epic adventure where you're thrown into a world of humans, robots, and gigantic weps! It's like your classic fantasy JRPG but with a sci-fi twist.

Mostly Cs: You should play SPLATOON 2.

The sequel to the hit Wii U shooter, er, splatter will feature bigger stages and crazier weapons. We deffo ain't squidding about this!

Mostly Ds: You should play SUPER MARIO ODVSSEY

Since you're all about the journey and not the destination, you'll enjoy this open-world game. Plus, Mario's cap doubles as a weapon now. Awesome!

Gameplay

Star Wars: Galaxy of Heroes is a turn-based RPG where you can play both Light and Dark Sides and assemble the strongest team in the galaxy! Unlock characters by earning special shards that you can obtain by fighting battles or buying Data Cards.

Graphics

You'll dig the boss 3D graphics and ridic details on character accessories.

Sound

The sfx includes lightsabers slashing, blasters firing, and spaceships hovering—just like an actual SW movie. Legit!

Replay

There are over a hundred solo battles to play through, plus a PvP Battle Arena where you can level up your ranking and win cool prizes. You can even join a guild and participate in space skirmishes.

Overall

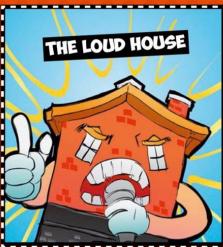

If you're into RPGs, you should deffo try this out 'coz it will make you feel like you're in a aalaxy far, far, away.

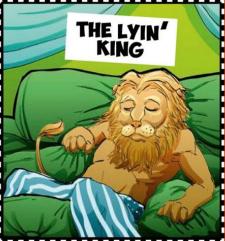

THESE REBOOTS

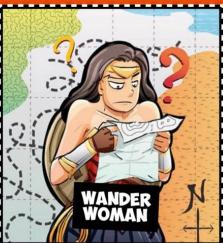

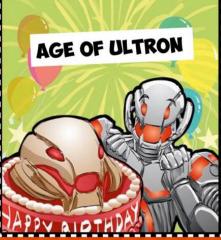

ARE A RIOT!

DISCLAIMER

Pranks have a nasty habit of going wrong, so be careful when you try to pull 'em off, and don't blame us if you end up getting grounded.

DUMP SCARE

Print a picture of something scary, like a monster or a villain, then tape it to the toilet seat cover. Close the toilet lid and wait for the next person to use the bathroom. They might already pee their pants when they see what's waiting for them. LOL!

REMOTE ACCESS DENIED

Take the batteries out of all the remote controls at home and stash 'em somewhere safe. Then, print derp faces that are small enough to fit in the remotes' battery compartments. Cut them out and put one derp face in each remote control. #IGotchuFam

LET IT GLOW

Grab a few toilet paper tubes and cut out holes in each tube (make sure they look like evil eyes). Crack some glow sticks and insert them in the tubes, then sneak into your sib's room and leave the glowing eyes in one corner. He'll deffo get the midnight creeps! Eek!

THAT'S A WRAP!

Sneak into your sib's room and gift-wrap every item in sight! It's best to do this on your sib's birthday with the help of your prankster 'rents. #FamilyBonding

Borrow a pal's hand sanitizer and replace the bottle's contents with clear glue. The next time he needs to clean his hands, he'll end up with gooey fingers instead. lck!

GLASS HALF-FULL

Be a good kid and set the table for the fam. Pour water in a glass 'til it's half-full, then cover it with a piece of cardboard. Flip the glass over while firmly holding the cardboard against the rim, then place the glass on the table and quickly pull the cardboard from underneath it. Do this for each fam member's glass. When they see the topsy-turvy scene, they'll be confused for sure!
